UNPREPARED LESSONS

Progress is made when the student consistently practices. Lessons that are unprepared will result in a zero for that lesson. If you do not have time to set aside for practice every day then it would be wise to drop this course. The student will receive the grade “F” after three (3) such lessons. Although I understand the problems with time constraints, work, family, etc. these aspects will not save your grade. Excuses have no uses!

Example: If you are taking 18 hours and are working 40 hours per week, then this is not the time to take piano.

Practice rooms are available. All students are encouraged to practice on acoustic pianos. Digital keyboards are fine, but tone, independence of fingers, and strength are not developed as well. Students that plan on practicing on a digital at home should balance by practicing some on the acoustic pianos in the practice rooms. Make sure your digital has full size keys and at least 60-70 keys.

Due to the ongoing COVID-19 situation, many classes could move to an online format at any time. The barriers that exist at the intersection of a student's disability and course design may be different from the original course format. Some accommodations students used before may no longer apply to online formats for example (Peer Notetaking, Priority Seating), and some accommodations not considered previously may need to be considered now. Each student situation is unique, and we are here to help and can look at your situations to come up with an individualized plan.

For online classes, examples of accommodations that could be provided would be extended time for exams (and quizzes), if exams (and quizzes) are timed, or on course assignments that are timed, course notes in Blackboard ability to record lecture using your own recording device and E-books sent via email if you qualify.

ReadSpeaker is available in Blackboard to read the content and exams that will be on Blackboard. Instructions on how to use ReadSpeaker can be found here.
